We're looking for an innovative Intermediate UI/UX Designer to help create and deliver compelling user experiences for our members. If you're someone who has a keen understanding of user-centered design methodologies and knows what great user interface looks and feels like, check out the requirements below. We want to hear from you!

What you'll do:

- Collaborate with the Design team to execute Mogo's design vision for our digital products and other parts of our online customer experience
- Design user experience and user interface for Mogo's products and services to ensure quality and consistent experiences across the platform
- Work with the Product and Development team to research and analyze product challenges
- Articulate design strategies and approaches to internal teams clearly
- Experiment, concept, and validate thoughtful design solutions
- Manage multiple projects from conception through to delivery
- Act as a brand ambassador for Mogo, regularly using our suite of products, sharing the brand with friends and family, and providing feedback to the team for improvements

What you'll bring:

- 3-5 years of experience designing for consumer-focused companies
- An online or PDF portfolio
- Experience working across established design systems
- Experience working within agile design and development teams
- Experience in creating interactive prototypes
- Strong understanding of how design choices translate in development
- Proficiency in Sketch
- Passion for building great digital products
- Great verbal and written communication skills and ability to present UX ideas and strategies to your peers
- Comfortable adapting to new insights and changes in a short time frame
